Lotsabirds School District District Profile and Detailed Data

The Lotsabirds Birds School District is a suburban and rural school district located about one hour north of Aviary, North Carolina. Approximately 10,000 students attend nineteen schools in the district (four high schools, five middle schools, ten elementary schools, and one alternative school). The southern end of the district has grown rapidly; the two high schools, two middle schools, and five elementary schools located there are recent buildings constructed to meet the needs of the booming population growth. The northern part of the district is more rural and has experienced less growth.
