

TIP SHEET: CHILD COUNT AND ELIGIBILITY

| Must I complete evaluations testing)?  If there are no current relevant, and existing data for the NC required screening/evaluations for each suspected disability.  NO  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for the required screening/evaluations for each suspected disability needed to establish eligibility and develop the IEP.  Eligibility is determined once the IEP Team reviews all the required evaluation data.  May I count on Child Count?  Essential Questions  When do I initiate the process?  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  What happens to eligibility?  No change to eligibility if the purpose of the reevaluation is programming only.  If the IEP Team suspects the disability has changed, then evaluations must be completed. Once completed, the IEP Team must convene for the purposes of eligibility.  May I count on Child Count?  Yes, if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1.  Essential Questions  When do I initiate the process?  Required every three years to review eligibility AND programming  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility and develop the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility and develop the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility and develop the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  | Essential Questions             | Initial  |
|---|--|--|
| If there are no current relevant, and existing data for the NC required screening/evaluations for each suspected disability.  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for the required screening/evaluations for each suspected disability needed to establish eligibility and develop the IEP.  Eligibility and develop the IEP.  Eligibility is determined once the IEP Team reviews all the required evaluation data.  Yes, if there is a current eligibility and IEP on December 1 and April 1.  Essential Questions  When do I initiate the process?  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming only.  If the IEP Team suspects the disability has changed, then evaluations must be completed. Once completed, the IEP Team must convene for the purposes of eligibility.  Yes, if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1.  Essential Questions  When of I initiate the process?  Must I complete evaluations:  Yes, if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1.  Essential Questions  When of I initiate the process?  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming  YES  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  YES  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  YES  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations to establish eligibility determined before current eligibility expires.  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility expires.  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility expires. | When do I initiate the process?        |  |
| when do I initiate the process?  What happens to eligibility?  May I count on Child Count?  Essential Questions  When do I initiate the process?  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team suspects the disability has changed, then evaluations must be completed. Once completed, the IEP Team must convene for the purposes of eligibility.  What I count on Child Count?  Essential Questions  When do I initiate the process?  Must I complete evaluations?  If the IEP Team suspects the disability has changed, then evaluations must be completed. Once completed, the IEP Team must convene for the purpose of eligibility.  Yes, if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1.  Essential Questions  When do I initiate the process?  Must I complete evaluations?  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  YES  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for all required screening/evaluations to establish eligibility and develop the IEP.  Evaluations must be completed, and eligibility determined before current eligibility expires.  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility category remains appropriate, eligibility can be determined, and the three-year clock is restarted.   | Must I complete evaluations (testing)? | If there are no current relevant, and existing data for the NC required screening/evaluations for each suspected disability.  NO  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for the required screening/evaluations for each suspected disability needed to establish      |
| Reevaluation  When do I initiate the process?  Suspect a change in eligibility OR Information needed for programming  YES  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming only.  No change to eligibility if the purpose of the reevaluation is programming only.  If the IEP Team suspects the disability has changed, then evaluations must be completed, Once completed, the IEP Team must convene for the purposes of eligibility.  Yes, if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1.  Essential Questions  When do I initiate the process?  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility AND programming  When do I initiate the process?  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  YES  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  YES  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations to establish eligibility and develop the IEP.  Evaluations must be completed, and eligibility determined before current eligibility expires.  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility category remains appropriate, eligibility can be determined, and the three-year clock is restarted.  | What happens to eligibility?           | 1  |
| When do I initiate the process?  Suspect a change in eligibility OR Information needed for programming  YES  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  No change to eligibility if the purpose of the reevaluation is programming only.  If the IEP Team suspects the disability has changed, then evaluations must be completed. Once completed, the IEP Team must convene for the purposes of eligibility.  Yes, if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1.  Essential Questions  When do I initiate the process?  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  YES  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  YES  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations to establish eligibility and develop the IEP.  Evaluations must be completed, and eligibility determined before current eligibility expires.  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility category remains appropriate, eligibility can be determined, and the three-year clock is restarted.  | May I count on Child Count?            | Yes, if there is a current eligibility and IEP on December 1 and April 1.  |
| Must I complete evaluations?  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  No change to eligibility if the purpose of the reevaluation is programming only.  If the IEP Team suspects the disability has changed, then evaluations must be completed. Once completed, the IEP Team must convene for the purposes of eligibility.  May I count on Child Count?  Yes, if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1.  Essential Questions  Triennial  Required every three years to review eligibility AND programming  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations to establish eligibility determined before current eligibility expires.  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility category remains appropriate, eligibility can be determined, and the three-year clock is restarted.   | Essential Questions             | Reevaluation   |
| What happens to eligibility?  No change to eligibility if the purpose of the reevaluation is programming only.  If the IEP Team suspects the disability has changed, then evaluations must be completed. Once completed, the IEP Team must convene for the purposes of eligibility.  Way I count on Child Count?  Yes, if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1.  Essential Questions  When do I initiate the process?  No  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility AND programming  YES  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  No  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations to establish eligibility determined before current eligibility expires.  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility category remains appropriate, eligibility can be determined, and the three-year clock is restarted.  | When do I initiate the process?        |  |
| only.  If the IEP Team suspects the disability has changed, then evaluations must be completed. Once completed, the IEP Team must convene for the purposes of eligibility.  Yes, if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1.  Essential Questions  Triennial  Required every three years to review eligibility AND programming  YES  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  NO  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations to establish eligibility and develop the IEP.  Evaluations must be completed, and eligibility determined before current eligibility expires.  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility category remains appropriate, eligibility can be determined, and the three-year clock is restarted.   | Must I complete evaluations?           | If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the   |
| Essential Questions When do I initiate the process?  • Required every three years to review eligibility AND programming  YES  If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  NO  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations to establish eligibility and develop the IEP.  • Evaluations must be completed, and eligibility determined before current eligibility expires.  • If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility category remains appropriate, eligibility can be determined, and the three-year clock is restarted.   | What happens to eligibility?           | <ul> <li>only.</li> <li>If the IEP Team suspects the disability has changed, then evaluations must be completed. Once completed, the IEP Team must convene for the</li> </ul>  |
| <ul> <li>Required every three years to review eligibility AND programming</li> <li>YES</li> <li>If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.</li> <li>If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations to establish eligibility and develop the IEP.</li> <li>Evaluations must be completed, and eligibility determined before current eligibility expires.</li> <li>If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility category remains appropriate, eligibility can be determined, and the three-year clock is restarted.</li> </ul>  | May I count on Child Count?            | Yes, if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1.  |
| What happens to eligibility?  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations must be completed, and eligibility determined before current eligibility expires.  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility category remains appropriate, eligibility can be determined, and the three-year clock is restarted.  | Essential Questions             | Triennial  |
| If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  NO  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations to establish eligibility and develop the IEP.  • Evaluations must be completed, and eligibility determined before current eligibility expires.  • If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility category remains appropriate, eligibility can be determined, and the three-year clock is restarted.  | When do I initiate the process?        | Required every three years to review eligibility AND programming   |
| eligibility expires.  • If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees that the eligibility category remains appropriate, eligibility can be determined, and the three-year clock is restarted.   | Must I complete evaluations?           | If the IEP Team suspects the eligibility category has changed OR the IEP Team requires formal evaluation data for programming.  NO  If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations to establish eligibility and develop the IEP. |
| May I count on Child Count? Yes, if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1.   | What happens to eligibility?           | <ul> <li>eligibility expires.</li> <li>If there is current, relevant, and existing data for all required screening/evaluations at the time of the triennial and the IEP Team agrees</li> </ul>   |
|   |  |  |

TIP SHEET: CHILD COUNT AND ELIGIBILITY

ECATS Rules of Completion

EC Process-A new IEP cannot be finalized if the eligibility has expired

Federal Reporting-A student may be counted on Child Count if there is a current IEP on December 1 and April 1

Eligibility EXPIRED IEP EXPIRED

Troubleshooting

Review Local Practices That May Be Problematic

- Is testing required locally for all required screenings/evaluations at initial, reevaluation, and/or triennial, regardless of existing data?
  - O We test every other triennial?
  - We test for all required evaluations even if we have existing data that may be current and relevant?
  - We test all out-of-state transfers?
  - We test all in-state transfers?
- Do we address eligibility at EVERY reevaluation if it is only for programming?
- Do we schedule the triennial reevaluation too close to the eligibility expiration date?